Join Adolescent Pain Specialist Dr Kathleen Cooke and Paediatric Rehabilitation Specialist Dr Owen Gillies for an evening of quality education focusing on chronic pain management in adolescents aged 14 to 21 years.

Discussion points:

- Assessment of chronic pain in adolescents.
- Multidisciplinary chronic pain management for adolescents.
- Pharmacology management – appropriate prescribing for adolescents.
- Role of rehabilitation in a pain management program.

Between 25% and 35% of children and adolescents experience chronic pain, with the greatest incidence in adolescence, especially for young girls. Young people with chronic pain often drop out of school, can become socially withdrawn and isolated, fail to achieve their academic potential and miss job opportunities. Source: painaustralia.org.au
