This event will provide GPs and their Practice team with the latest information on the appropriate use of opioids in acute and chronic pain management, including discussions from addiction, drug dependency and pain physician specialists and other key members of a multidisciplinary pain management team.

GPs will have an opportunity to learn about appropriately prescribing opioids for acute and chronic pain, identifying risks for aberrant behaviours, managing patients demanding an increase in opioid dose and the problematic trends in opioids in our community. There will also be an opportunity to network with peers.

St Vincent's Private Hospital Brisbane (SVPHB) offers a multidisciplinary pain management service comprising several inpatient and outpatient assessment and treatment options and programs for those suffering chronic pain. SVPHB recently opened a $3 million pain management centre which includes establishment of an operating theatre equipped with the latest technologies to support complex pain procedures.
